Help us shine a light

Every night, families in our community face some of life's hardest moments. You can be the reason they don't face them alone.

Nighttime is often a lonely and difficult time for someone facing the end of their life. In those quiet, dark hours, our Hospice at Home team provides comfort, care, and companionship to patients and their loved ones. Their support is a lifeline - helping families feel safe and less alone in the hardest moments.

It's a crucial part of the care we offer, but with more people needing our help, and the cost of providing this care continuing to rise, we need committed support more than ever.

We've launched the Patron Circle for people like you - those who want to make a real difference when it matters most.

If you're able to pledge an annual gift to support our night shifts, you'll help ensure that fewer people face the night alone. Your commitment would mean that more families can experience the peace and dignity of Hospice care at home.

Whether you've supported us for many years, or are just discovering our work, thank you for considering this meaningful way to give.

Join the Patron Circle and be a light in someone's night.

Peace of mind in the small hours

Night shifts are a vital - and growing - part of our Hospice at Home service. Tonight - and every night - trained Palliative Care Support Workers will each travel across our region to spend 10 hours with a single family, providing care to our patients and support for their loved ones in the comfort of their own home.

This service brings:

- ♥ relief and reassurance to exhausted caregivers
- ♥ dignity and comfort to patients
- ♥ peace of mind to families during difficult nights

In 2024-25, we delivered 798 night shifts - each one a lifeline. At an average cost of £217 per shift, that's over £173,000 spent delivering calm, compassionate care through the night. And demand is rising.

Joining the Patron Circle means standing beside families when they need it most. Your support will help deliver calm, compassionate care through the night - bringing relief, dignity, and peace to homes across our community.

Through the Night

Comfort for Brian and peace of mind for his family.

When Brian's health declined in his nineties, his wife Jill had been caring for him for years. As his death approached in early 2025, their daughter Helen returned home to support them both. With Brian growing weaker, their GP referred them to St Peter's.

Brian had daytime carers coming to the house and Jill and Helen were also there. But they were exhausted by the broken nights, checking on Brian every two hours and sitting with him through the night when he was awake and distressed.

Helen said, "The first St Peter's night shift sticks in my mind. I was on my knees with tiredness. For weeks, if I wasn't at Dad's bedside through the night, I was coming to his room every two hours. I was running on empty and my sense of perspective was failing. Becky, the nurse who came, was truly wonderful. She really connected with Dad and I went off to bed knowing not only that he would be safe but that he would be cared for.

"When I came down in the morning after my first good night's sleep in ages, she and Dad were quietly working together on a paint by numbers picture on her iPad. Dad had always loved painting and art, and amazingly, Becky had found just the way to connect with him and help him through the night. And I was refreshed from my night's sleep and ready to face whatever the day would bring. I think that the memory of that morning will stay with me forever."

Becky, the Hospice at Home nurse said: "When I first met Helen, she was clearly exhausted. I reassured her that it was okay for her to get some rest, letting her know I'd wake her if I needed to. It's so important that families feel confident and comfortable leaving their loved ones in your care - they need to trust that you're there not just for the patient, but for them as well. It was such a pleasure to spend time with Brian and hear more about his love of art and painting. When Helen woke in the morning, she looked refreshed after a full night's sleep - ready to take on the day, reassured her father had been well cared for."
